ABOUT CHRIS

Chris got his start working for his father but never intended to spend a career in the green industry. Now he's thankful to be in an industry that he loves so much and follows in Dad's footsteps of giving back to the industry. He's been working with turf professionals since the early 90s and enjoys helping customers meet their agronomic and genetic turf challenges. A self-described seed geek he continues to push the genetic envelope to benefit his customers and AGT. When not on the job Chris is an active Shriner who enjoys the volunteer life.

He's also a salt-water enthusiast who enjoys chasing game fish up and down the east coast.
